Kansas Clinician Kerry Kuhn is one of the brightest young clinicians in the industry today and has more than 30 years experience with horses in several disciplines. He is a member of Purina Mills national Equine Influential Team and has been a featured clinician at numerous well-known horse expos around the country.

Kerry has won several colt starting competitions and was recently featured in the September edition of Western Horseman. His home facility is the JJ Ranch in south central Kansas, where he has recently completed a large facility expansion to allow for training horses and riders using the ranch's natural terrain. He is joined there by his wife Misti and his sons Kauy, Kolt and Kody.
